

Executive Coach

Amy L. Sareeram

Washington DC Metropolitan Area

Amy stands as a distinguished leader, using her deep knowledge to help clients overcome obstacles and succeed in their personal and professional goals. With an impressive track record, she has collaborated with numerous clients spanning the globe, adeptly tailoring her approach to accommodate diverse cultural nuances and organizational exigencies.

What sets Amy apart is her two decades of astute leadership involvement across both the public and private domains, an invaluable repository of insights into the prevailing trials that individuals and teams confront. Her groundbreaking journey includes trailblazing as the first analyst in four distinguished senior roles within the Federal Bureau of Investigation. In her foray into the private sector, Amy served as Managing Director at Aon's Cyber Solutions Intelligence Practice, a position from which she spearheaded a globally dispersed team dedicated to conducting comprehensive cyber investigations, symbolic of her ceaseless quest for pushing boundaries.

Amy's diverse leadership story is a powerful tale of gaining strength and setting new standards of excellence. Armed with a wealth of practical acumen and a nuanced understanding of human dynamics, she emerges as an unwavering ally for those seeking to carve their paths amidst the complex labyrinth of contemporary leadership challenges.

Education & Certifications

- Bradley University, BA, International Studies and French
- George Washington University, MA, International Affairs
- Executive Education Certificate, Harvard Business School
- Certified Professional Coach (CPC)
- Emotional Intelligence Assessment (EQi 2.0 and EQi 2.0 360)

What clients say about Amy

"Amy was fantastic! I started the program at my wits end with a challenging leader. Amy not only helped me navigate that situation but also helped me grow more generally in my leadership skills as I moved to manage a larger team. Amy served as a neutral and independent sounding board. With some vulnerability on my part to discuss some long-standing issues, I now have some good tools and I know what I can do to address many of the recurring themes. The program was particularly helpful at this stage of my career."
Senior Director of Marketing and Customer Engagement

Highlights

Executive level leadership experience as Deputy Assistant Director with FBI and Managing Director with cyber security firm

Led transformational change to improve organizational effectiveness and maximize resources

Employs leadership assessments to identify strengths and weaknesses to improve communication and emotional intelligence skills

Leadership coach with global clients ranging from senior executive to first-time leaders

Professional Coaching Certification (PCC) with the International Coaching Federation